Dr. O. A. CARLSTEDT'S GERMAN LIVER SYRUP.

Delay not a moment when Costive or Bilioous as serious results may follow neglect.

SICK HEADACHE, NO MORE.

WHAT THE DOCTOR SAYS.

I suffered nearly three years with my head. I had severe headaches and during the last year dizziness, pressure and throbbing in the brain. I have taken three bottles of Dr. O. A. Carlstedt's German Liver Syrup and my head is now well.

Newburg, N. Y. Mrs. A. S. JONES.

Tired, could not sleep at night.

From overwork I became nervous, tired, weak, exhausted and unable to sleep or rest. I finally took Dr. O. A. Carlstedt's German Liver Syrup and now sleep soundly every night from eight to ten hours. I am well and life is a pleasure.

Edward A. Crawford, Amos, Kansas.

HAD THE BLUES, AND GAVE UP.

Last February I felt very badly. I kept getting worse until I was almost mad. I could not love my own children. I was on the brink of suicide. Finally I got a bottle of Dr. O. A. Carlstedt's German Liver Syrup. That night, for the first time in months, I slept well and began to improve. Now I am well and a truly happy woman.

Mrs. T. O. Schmidt, Milwaukee, Wis.

CHRONIC HEADACHE, NERVOUSNESS.

I was a sufferer from chronic nervous headaches and sleeplessness. Life became a burden. I tried doctors in vain: finally I took Dr. O. A. Carlstedt's German Liver Syrup and I firmly believe it saved my life.

Miss Pearl Campbell, Englewood, Ills.

HEADACHES, INDIGESTION, ETC. 22 YEARS.

For 22 years I had headaches, indigestion, constipation and general debility with pains in my sides and shoulders. Tried doctors without avail. Dr. O. A. Carlstedt's German Liver Syrup cured me; it's worth its weight in gold.

Perfect Wisdom

Would give us perfect health. Because men and women are not perfectly wise, they must take medicines to keep themselves healthy. Pure, rich blood is the basis of good health. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the One True Blood Purifier. It gives good health because it builds upon the true foundation—pure blood.

Hood's Pills are pure vegetable, perfectly harmless, always reliable and beneficial.

Mrs. Nancy Coffee, the oldest woman in Casey county, is dead.

It is a great mistake to suppose that a simple tonic gives strength. It only stimulates the stomach to renewed action. To impart real strength, the blood must be purified and enriched, and this can only be done by such a standard alternative as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Preparations are being rapidly made to rebuild the burnt district in Seabee. No more frame buildings will be erected.

Food, when it sours on the stomach, becomes innutritive and unwholesome. It poisons the blood, and both mind and body suffer in consequence. What is needed to restore perfect digestion is a dose or two of Ayer's Pills. The never fail to relieve.

Prof. B. C. Hagerman, formerly of Lawrenceburg, has been elected President of Bethany College, West Virginia, and has accepted the position.

Thousands have tested the great building-up power of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and have found renewed strength, vigor and vitality in its use.

U. A. Garred, the young mechanical engineer who is alleged to have been Alderman Campbell's tool in much of his crookedness, is in Lexington, and says he is innocent of all charges.

Jamaica, the great sunland of the world, brought within easy reach by the Plant Steamship Line. Six winter excursions. Write B. W. Wrenn, P. T. M., Savannah, Ga.,

Reports from West Virginia are particularly encouraging. Southern General manager F. B. DeBerard visited that State this week. He says that he has not a doubt about the completion of arrangements for a splendid exhibit from West Virginia, though the official application for space has not been made. Look out for West Virginia next week.

The energetic manner in which a large number of able and influential Tennesseans are working for a creditable Tennessee exhibit at Chicago, augurs well for the appearance of Tennessee at Chicago. A single subscription of $1,000 on Monday for the Tennessee fund with important private and co-operate exhibits for the State put Tennessee stock on a jump. There is little doubt of the excellence of Tennessee's exhibit, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

Eyes Rarely Equal in Power.

You are either left-eyed or right-eyed, unless you are the one person out of every fifteen who has eyes of equal strength. You also belong to the small minority of one out of every ten persons if your left eye is stronger than your right. As a rule, just as people are right-handed, they are right-eyed. This is probably due to the generally greater use of the organs of the right side of the body, as for example, a gunner, using his right arm and shoulder, uses his right eye, thereby strengthening it with exercise. Old sea-captains after long use of the telescope, find their right eye much stronger than the left. This law is confirmed by the experience of aurists. If a person who has ears of equal hearing power has cause to use one ear more than the other for a long period, the ear brought into requisition is found to be much strengthened, and the ear which is not used loses its hearing in a corresponding degree.

UTILIZING WASTE PRODUCTS.

Idea of Department of Agriculture May Save $14,000,000 a Year.

The department of agriculture has a new idea, says the New York Post. It is to utilize great quantities of food materials that now go to waste in this country by putting them into shape of biscuits and cakes for sale as feed for horses and cattle abroad. The material thus employed would be reduced by hydraulic pressure to the least possible bulk. It is believed that in this way a market can be found in Europe for certain products of the United States which at present are thrown away—such as the refuse of flour mills, rice mills, oat mills, cottonseed-oil mills, and the glucose and starch factories. Farmers in Europe are accustomed to feed their animals on cakes which are compounded on dietetic principles, so as to furnish the requisite elements for producing fat and lean. To serve as a basis for the cakes referred to, they obtained from the United States last year 750,000,000 pounds of refuse from cottonseed-oil and linseed-oil mills, representing a value of $7,200,000. They mix this stuff with various grains and fodders, so as to make a suitable ration for whatever purpose may be in view, whether it be flesh, milk, or the support of beasts of work. It is estimated that ten pounds of glucose are manufactured annually for every man, woman and child in this country. For this purpose the starchy contents of the corn-grains are separated from the hulls and germs. The germs and hulls, which are extremely rich in food elements, are wasted to a great extent, though a portion of this material is dried and utilized eventually as cattle feed. It is the same way with similar by-products of the mills which prepare corn for distillers and brewers. At present we sell abroad less than 400,000 tons of oil cake and meal. It is believed that we could readily dispose of 1,200,000 tons of ready-made feed cakes, worth $20 a ton at our seaboard, or $24,000,000—a gain of more than $14,000,000 in foreign markets for our grain producers, millers and oil mills. In Europe the cakes which the farmers make or buy are solidified by mixing the ingredients with a tarry or other sticky substance. It is suggested that for this purpose in the United States molasses might be employed. Vast quantities of molasses go to waste annually. After the sugar has been separated the surplus of black molasses is thrown away. It is rich and good, but it is black and so nobody will buy it.

TWO FACES IN A PORTRAIT.

Remarkable Picture to Which a Curious Story is Attached.

On the grand staircase of Hatfield house is a portrait of the fourth earl of Salisbury, to which a curious story attaches, says Cassell's Magazine. A casual glance at the picture gives the impression of a man with two heads—behind the features of the earl peers another face in much fainter outlines and of quite a distinct type—the face, in fact, of the unfortunate duke of Monmouth. It seems that the duke, when a favorite of court, was a friend of the earl of Salisbury, and as a mark of his esteem presented the earl with his portrait. After Sendgemoor, however, it was not safe for the earl to keep the picture on his wall, and it was accordingly hidden away in the lumber room. Years after, the discarded canvas, from which the features of the rebel duke had entirely disappeared, was found by the fourth earl of Salisbury at a time when he was about to have his own portrait painted, and in a spirit of economy he resolved to utilize it for this purpose. When the portrait came to be cleaned up some years ago the face of Monmouth reappeared, to the confusion of the person engaged in the task. This, at any rate, is the explanation of the mystery which Lord Salisbury himself has accepted, if only for want of a better.

Women's Love of Ugly Men.

The illustrious men of history who were distinguished as much for the fascination which they exercised over the fair sex as for their talents and ability were as a rule plain and insignificant in appearance. Julius Caesar was a very ill-favored man, and yet when a mere stripling, before his fame in Rome, girls of his own age sighed for him and mature women longed for his love. Among the men of later times who were renowned in like manner were Sir Philip Sidney, plain almost to ugliness; Paul Scarron, the comic poet, a cripple; Voltaire, unmistakably ugly; and Rousseau, whose manners were awkward as his face was plain, while John Wilkes, who had the power to subjugate any woman who spoke to him for even five minutes, was admitted by his own showing to be the ugliest man in England in his time.

—Shakespeare's first play, if ever he wrote any, was said to have been written at about the age of 27.

—Keats, the "Poet of Poets," made himself immortal in English literature before his death at 24.
